Message from Team Leader

The Social Science plays a crucial role in our quest to understand, envision and create a more sustainable future for all as emphasized by the United Nations Educational, Scientific and Cultural Organization. Social sciences, uniquely positioned at the intersection of human behavior, history, psychology, and the environment, underscore the interconnectedness of these elements.

Aligned with the New Education Policy 2024, which advocates for a holistic and integrated approach to education, MSMS aims to foster creativity and critical thinking. Central to social sciences is the exploration of situations where individuals confront moral dilemmas, highlighting the need for an educational system rooted in compassion and ethics. This ethos empowers individuals to make decisions that not only impact their lives but also society at large.

At MSMS, we are dedicated to nurturing individuals into morally upright beings with the capacity for rational thought, compassion, and courage, all while fostering creative imagination. We continually refine our teaching methodologies, assessment tools, and rubrics to enhance the learning experience.

Creating an environment that prioritizes expression is paramount to understanding students' learning capacities. The quality of teaching and learning hinges on a teacher's ability to listen to diverse perspectives and synthesize them into meaningful learning outcomes. Students, being integral to the assessment process, find it easier to comprehend assessment tools in such an environment.

With a seasoned faculty possessing profound knowledge and experience, MSMS provides a joyful learning environment. Our quality standards are tailored to each student's uniqueness, allowing them to learn at their own pace. Students are encouraged to think critically and adopt a humultidisciplinary approach.

Through hands-on learning, excursions, and visits to historically significant sites, students are encouraged to think beyond textbooks. This approach enables them to recognize and interpret facts and develop their own perspectives on issues crucial for building an inclusive, equitable, and pluralistic society.

Driving this pedagogical approach is our Principal, Ms. Ruchika Sukhija, whose leadership fosters an environment that nurtures every idea and enhances teachers' potential and creativity."
